

ANNOUNCING – THE 2009 PENNSYLVANIA
GEOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY’S ANNUAL MEETING***
WEST CHESTER UNIVERSITY, WEST CHESTER, PA
October 23-24, 2009

West Chester University is in the Brandywine Valley, the location of many world renowned attractions made famous by the legacy of the Du'Pont family. This includes Longwood Gardens, the Hagley Museum/Estate and the Winterthur Museum/Estate. There is also the re-opened Nemours Mansion/Gardens, another Du'Pont estate. The Brandywine Battlefield (the largest engagement of the Revolutionary War) is close to WCU. The town of West Chester offers many excellent restaurants and great night life. Chester County was one of the original 3 counties founded by William Penn and the area is full of historic interest. It is also known watershed protection and resource conservation and is home to the Brandywine Conservancy, the Brandywine Valley Association, the Stroud Freshwater Research Center and the White Clay Creek Preserve.

Please join us for what is shaping up to be an outstanding meeting!
